Dear Sir:

Enclosed are xerox copies of the Birth Certificate for Mrs. Esther Heffel John. They were obtained three weeks apart.

On a previous communication your office attended to the problem of the changes. Actually, January 9, 1919 is the date Mrs. John and her family has always celebrated for her birthday. It appears the "1" was added.

Would you do what is necessary to correct this to January 9, 1919, as the correct date.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Benson:

Thank you for your letter of August 24, regarding the birth certificate problem with Mrs. Esther John.

The actual date that her mother and the entire family has always celebrated for her birthday was January 9. The added "1" would seem most likely to be a mistake. I discussed this with Mrs. A. D. Heffel and she could remember very little of the details of 1948, but insists that the 9th is the proper date rather than the 19th.

If there are further documentations that would be helpful, please inform me of them.

Sincerely,

Dear Doctor John:

I have reviewed all of the correspondence regarding the request for your wife's birth certificate. I have examined the certificate in question and find that someone in this office has altered the date of birth from the 19th to the 9th. This is a rather serious action and one that has never before taken place in this office to my knowledge.

The Statutes are quite specific about alterations or corrections on certificates, and I cannot understand why this certificate was changed in this manner. It is quite obvious that someone has erased the 1 in front of the 9. The copy that shows January 19 is the correct copy which was sworn to by the affidavit of the mother. I am having the 1 added back on the certificate so that the date will be the 19th unless this is an incorrect date and substantiating documents must be provided to indicate that the date of birth is the 9th. I assume that the 19th is the correct date since there was a copy issued on April 19, 1948 which listed the 19th as the date of birth.

You may be assured that my investigation is continuing so that this practice will not occur again. I must apologize for any inconvenience that has been caused.

Very truly yours,

W. W. Benson, State Registrar
